eBook Myths BUSTED!

Myth: Kids prefer print

Reality: Both print and digital books are important and serve different purposes. Schools need both, not either/or. Digital reading keeps kids supplied with books on-the-go/at home and can be motivational for reluctant readers, as well as, provide valuable privacy for struggling readers who don't want to be seen carrying a "baby" book.

Myth: I can find one eBook platform to meet all my needs

Reality: If only it were so! Schools and districts have lots of different readers with lots of different needs. To meet them, you likely need multiple eBook platforms. Some platforms can be hard for younger students to navigate and require multiple copy purchases of popular titles (that still have hold lists!) for example. Capstone Interactive meets the unique needs of elementary readers and educators.

Myth: eBook licenses are expensive and confusing

Reality: OK. This has some truth to it. But our multiuser license and easy access model make Capstone Interactive eBooks the exception to the rule.
